SINGAPORE NATIONAL BIOFILM CONSORTIUM INDUSTRY MEMBERSHIP BENEFITS

The Singapore National Biofilm Consortium (SNBC) aims to foster synergistic interactions among IHLs, research institutes, government agencies and industry in Singapore to enable technology translation and deliver economic impact. The membership benefits are as follows.

1. Entitled to apply for NRF grants, under the name of the Consortium, or any other grants of a similar nature in future, if applicable, subject to NRF requirements.
2. Entitled to apply for Consortium seed grants for translational activities with the Consortium Parties (NTU & NUS).
3. Access to selected biofilm analyses facilities / lab and equipment at the Consortium Parties and Research Members at member rates and subject to terms and conditions of use of the relevant Consortium Party / Research Member.
4. Priority access to participation in conferences, seminars, courses and workshops organized by the Consortium.
5. Opportunity to request SNBC to conduct specialty workshops tailored to members' needs.
6. Access to top researchers for advice and consultancy on technical queries.
7. Potential for research and development collaborations with the Consortium Parties and other Consortium Members.
8. Facilitate access to globally renowned biofilm centres and gain recognition as industry leader (e.g. through SNBC's partnership with National Biofilms Innovation Centre-UK).
9. Access to potential customers and widen business network through the Consortium.
10. Foster technical capabilities and credibility for the Consortium Members.
11. Exposure for members on the Consortium website (www.snbc.sg).
12. Access to the members' only educational material from the SNBC website.
